

Transportation Infrastructure/ Multimodal Products and Services Trade Mission to U.A.E. and Qatar

Secretary of Commerce Gary Locke to Lead Mission

The mission will introduce U.S. suppliers of transportation infrastructure and multimodal products and services to prospective business partners from the U.A.E. and Qatar.

We Do All the Work!

We do everything for you, including organizing matchmaking meetings, logistics, briefings, and receptions; setting up display areas; providing market research; and assisting you on-site.

Why the U.A.E. and Qatar?

Major push for infrastructure development. Increasing populations, rapid urbanization, and growing affluence in recent years is creating strong demand for a wide variety of transportation infrastructure products and services, including multimodal and port logistics. Qatar will host the World Cup in 2022. Infrastructure development estimated to be $100 billion will be ramping up and now is the time to begin making the right contacts to help your company.

Business in the Middle East is personal—meet the key decision makers in these expanding markets. We will introduce you to the right decision makers that are necessary to long term success in these markets. This includes buyers, agents, and distributors matched to your company's needs, as well as senior level government officials.

Learn how business is done. You will be provided with market intelligence to help you make informed decisions about sales and marketing strategies.

Rapidly growing economies. The U.A.E. and Qatar are among the strongest and most dynamic markets in the world, and need infrastructure improvements to meet growing demand.

Apply Now. Space is Limited to 20 Companies.

trade.gov/QatarUAEMission2011

Date: June 4–9, 2011

Venue: Individual appointment locations designed to provide ready access to the top decision makers

Deadline: March 18, 2011

Cost:

- $8,800 for small and medium-sized enterprises (fewer than 500 employees)
- $10,200 for large companies
- Local air and ground transportation included

Featuring Embassy and Consular receptions in each location with principals, key government officials, and press.

For More Information:

Larry Brill

Lawrence.Brill@trade.gov

(202) 482-1856

